

In science class, Mr. Walsh usually has an example to show you of what your finished work should look like. I have examples for you now, too!

Here's an example of what beginning writers can do:

And here's an example with some more writing, for any of you writing superstars out there!

How much should you write? It's up to you! Just remember to always do your best. If it's super easy for you, then you know you can probably write a little more. If it's kind of hard to do, that's a good thing; we all need a challenge!
